1st Restaurant

While meals had long been offered in taverns, cookshops and coffeehouses, the first place known as a restaurant was Champ d'Oiseau, which opened in Paris in 1765. At the entrance was the Latin motto, Venite ad me, omnes qui stomacho laboratis, et ego

restaurabo vos, or

"Come to me, anybody, whose stomach groans, and I will restitute you."
